TARIFF PROCEEDINGS

Satisfactory Progress Being Made In the Measure.

SOME REPORTS FROM COMMITTEES.

The Nomination of William F. Powell as Minister to Haiti Confirmed—The House Has a Brief Session and Passes a Relief Bill.

Washington, June 18.—The senate made great progress on the tariff bill. Two entire schedules, covering 20 pages, were completed—namely, schedules H, on spirits, wines and beverages, and schedule I, on manufactured cotton goods. This brings the senate to the flax schedule, with the important wool schedule standing next.

The portion of the bill passed is substantially the same as that reported, all committee changes being unimportant, while the opposition amendments of Mr. Jones of Arkansas and Mr. Vest were systematically rejected by majorities varying from 5 to 10.

Mr. Allison secured the addition of a new paragraph to the cotton schedule with a view to compensating the cotton manufacturers for the recent action of the senate in placing raw cotton on the dutiable list.

Some Committee Reports.

Senator Thurston, from the committee on international exposition, has reported the bill introduced by Senator Mason for the representation of this country at the Paris exposition of 1900.

As reported, the bill provides for a commissioner general at a salary of $10,000 a year, an assistant commissioner general at $6,000 and 10 scientific experts at $2,500 a year each.

Provision is also made for the proper representation of this country in the exhibit of the exposition. The total expenditure is limited to $500,000.

Senator Chilton, from the committee on interstate commerce, has reported the bill extending the time allowed railroad companies between loading and unloading cattle in transit from 28 to 40 hours. The bill is inspired by the fact that modern railroad facilities for taking care of live stock freight are much improved over those of the time when the present statute was enacted.

The senate has confirmed the nomination of William F. Powell of New Jersey to be minister to Haiti.

The House's Short Session.

The house was in session an hour and a half, most of the time being taken up with roll calls. Mr. Sulzer of New York succeeded in injecting into the proceedings a brief speech in favor of Cuba, in which he denounced Weyler as a thief and murderer. The bill for the relief of the residents of Greer county, O. T., was passed.

Democrats Will Not Obstruct.

Washington, June 18.—Some of the Democratic members of the senate committee on finance say that henceforth they would interpose no objection to the rapid disposal of the tariff bill. They will suggest amendments and ask votes on them for the purpose of making a record, but there will, if they can control the matter, be no long speeches on the schedules, with the possible exceptions of wool, hides, the reciprocity paragraph, which the Republicans have promised to report, and a few other sections. The indications now are that the Republicans will withdraw the internal revenue provisions of the bill.

Will Soon Take Up Hawaiian Treaty.

Washington, June 18.—Senator Davis, chairman of the senate committee on foreign relations, said that the committee would take up the Hawaiian treaty at the next regular meeting, which will be held on Wednesday of next week. He said that the treaty would in any event be held in committee a sufficient length of time to permit all sides to be heard, but that the time would be controlled somewhat by the indications as to whether the senate would consider the treaty at the present session. On this latter point the senator declined to advance an opinion.

Bank Going Out of Business.

Hartford, June 18.—It is announced that the Mercantile National bank will go out of the banking business. A committee will call a meeting of all the stockholders to wind up the affairs of the bank. The bank has deposits amounting to $325,000, the amount due other banks is $190,000 cash assets $312,000 and bills receivable $700,000. The liabilities, including capital, $500,000, aggregate about $1,015,000, and the assets, as shown above, amount to $1,012,000. The bank was organized in 1854 and did a state banking business until 1865, when it became a national bank.

Ex-Secretary Foster's Mission Successful.

Washington, June 18.—A cablegram received at the state department from ex-Secretary Foster, who has been at St. Petersburg engaged in negotiations with the Russian government for the better protection, by mutual agreement, of the seal life in the north Pacific and Bering sea, announces the complete success of his mission. The commissioner is now on his return to the United States.

Held For Alleged Arson.

Bellfonte, Pa., June 18.—James Cornelius, who is charged with setting fire to the armory here, has been given a hearing and was recommitted to jail in default of $6,000 bail for trial at the August term of court. Damaging evidence was presented against the prisoner. A detective testified to having seen Cornelius leave the armory when the flames broke out.

Defaulter's Hiding Place Discovered.

Minneapolis, June 18.—The whereabouts of Louis F. Menage, the defaulting president of the defunct Northwestern Guaranty Loan company, has again been disclosed. He is now living with his family in the City of Mexico under his own name.

Strike In a Silk Mill.

Bethlehem, Pa., June 18.—The weavers of the Cutter silk mills have gone on strike for an increase of wages of 8 cents per yard. The company refused to grant the increase.

STATE PRINTING AWARDED.

Given to a Brooklyn Company In Spite of a Vigorous Protest.

Albany, June 18.—The state printing board at a meeting has awarded the contract for legislative printing for the two years beginning Oct. 1, to Charles Tollner, Jr., of Brooklyn, his bid being the lowest at $68,611.30.

The price of the last contract, which was awarded two years ago to the Wynkoop Hallenbeck Crawford company, was in the neighborhood of $111,000.

The computations of the bids were as follows: Charles Tollner, Jr., of Brooklyn, $68,611.30; the Wynkoop Hallenbeck Crawford company, $73,653.64; J. B. Lyon, $87,050.13; The Argus company, $110,162.90; the Weed Parsons company, $104,742.08; The Journal company of Albany, $108,498.57.

All the bidders except Tollner have establishments in this city.

Amasa J. Parker, on behalf of The Argus company, protested, saying: "In behalf of my clients I protest against the award of the contract to Mr. Tollner and also the consideration of the bid of the Wynkoop Hallenbeck Crawford company on the ground that there is collusion between the bidders to the disadvantage of the state.

"I have information that their bids are made in the same interests, and if that be true—and I think I can prove it, if the board will give me an opportunity—this board will see very plainly that there was collusion and that the contract should not be awarded to either of these bidders."

The board did not pay any attention to this protest, and the contract was awarded by a unanimous vote to Charles Tollner, Jr.

WILL SUSTAINED.

Institutions Will Profit by the Bequests of Dean Colgate.

Corning, N. Y., June 18.—The contest of the will of the Very Rev. Dean Colgate of this city, who died a year ago, leaving an estate of $100,000, has been decided by Surrogate Miller. About $30,000 was bequeathed to charitable and religious institutions in Buffalo and this city, as well as $5,000 each to St. Bonaventure's college at Alleghany and Niagara university.

Objections to the will were filed by nephews and nieces on the ground that it was improperly drawn, and the attempt was made to deprive the charitable and religious institutions of the amounts left them.

The decision sustains the will in all the main points. A few small bequests were cut out, however, with the consent of the executors. The executors are Bishop Quigley and A. P. Conlon of Buffalo. William Tully of Corning and D. M. Page of Hornellsville are the attorneys for the executors.

QUEEN LIL OBJECTS.

She Files a Protest Against the Annexation of Hawaii.

THE CONTENTS OF THE DOCUMENT.

She Insists That She Is Still the Rightful Sovereign of the Islands—Says the Proposed Treaty Would Be an Act of Injustice.

Washington, June 18.—Ex-Queen Liliuokalani has filed the following protest in the office of the secretary of state:

"I, Liliuokalani of Hawaii, by the will of God named heir apparent on the 10th day of April, A. D., 1877, and by the grace of God queen of the Hawaiian islands on the 17th day of January, A. D., 1893, do hereby protest against the ratification of a certain treaty which, so I am informed, has been signed at Washington by Messrs. Hatch, Thurston and Kinney, purporting to cede the islands to the territory and dominion of the United States.

"I declare such treaty to be an act of wrong toward the native and part native people of Hawaii, an invasion of the rights of the ruling chiefs, in violation of international rights, both toward my people and toward friendly nations with whom they have made treaties, the perpetuation of the fraud whereby the constitutional government was overthrown and finally an act of gross injustice to me:

"Because the official protest made by me on the 17th day of January, 1893, to the so called provisional government, which was summoned by me, was received by said government with the assurance that the case was referred to the United States of America for arbitration.

To Avoid Bloodshed.

"Because that protest and the communications to the United States government immediately thereafter expressly declares that I yielded my authority to the forces of the United States in order to avoid bloodshed and because I recognized the futility of a conflict with so formidable a power.

"Because the president of the United States, secretary of state and an envoy commissioned by them reported in official documents that my government was unlawfully coerced by the forces, diplomatic and naval, of the United States; that I was at the date of their investigations the constitutional ruler of my people.

"Because such decision of the recognized magistrates of the United States was officially communicated to me and to Sanford B. Dole and said Dole's resignation requested by Albert S. Willis, the recognized agent and minister of the government of the United States.

"Because neither the above named commission nor the government which sends it has ever received any such authority from the registered voters of Hawaii, but derives its assumed powers from the so called committee of public safety, organized on or about said 17th day of January, 1893, said committee being composed largely of persons claiming American citizenship, and not one single Hawaiian was a member thereof or in any way participated in the demonstration leading to its existence.

People Were Not Consulted.

"Because my people, about 40,000 in number, have in no way been consulted by those—3,000 in number—who claim the right to destroy the independence of Hawaii. My people constitute four-fifths of the legally qualified voters of Hawaii, and, excluding those imported for the demands of labor, about the same proportion of the inhabitants:

"Because said treaty ignores not only the civic rights of my people; but, further, the hereditary property of their chiefs. Of the 4,000,000 acres comprising the territory said treaty offers to annex, 1,000,000, or 915,000 acres, have in no way been heretofore recognized as other than the private property of the constitutional monarch, subject to a control in no way differing from other items of a private estate.

"Because it is proposed by said treaty to confiscate said property, technically called the crown lands, those legally entitled thereto, either now or in succession, receiving no consideration whatever for estates, their title to which has been always undisputed and which is legitimately in my name at this date.

"Because said treaty ignores not only all professions of perpetual amity and good faith made by the United States in former treaties with the sovereigns representing the Hawaiian people, but all treaties made by those sovereigns with other and friendly powers, and it is thereby in violation of international law.

"Because, by treating with the parties claiming at this time the right to cede said territory of Hawaii, the government of the United States receives such territory from the hands of those whom its own magistrates—legally elected by the people of the United States and in office in 1893—pronounced fraudulently in power and unconstitutionally ruling Hawaii. Therefore, I, Liliuokalani of Hawaii, do hereby call upon the president of that nation to whom alone I yielded my property and my authority, to withdraw said treaty—ceding said lands—from further consideration. I ask the honorable senate of the United States to decline to ratify said treaty, and I implore the people of this great and good nation, from whom my ancestors learned the Christian religion, to sustain their representatives in such acts of justice and equity as may be in accord with the principles of their fathers. And to the Almighty Ruler of the universe, to him who judgeth righteously, I commit my cause."

The protest is signed "Liliuokalani," and to it are affixed the signatures of Joseph Heleluhe, Wekeki Heleluhe and Julius A. Palmer as witnesses.

THE LUETGERT CASE.

Denials of the Genuineness of an Alleged Letter From the Missing Woman.

Chicago, June 18.—Both Dietrich Bicknese and Mrs. Wilhelmina Miller, brother and sister of Mrs. Adolph Luetgert, for whose alleged murder her husband Adolph Luetgert, the rich sausage manufacturer, is under indictment, deny the genuineness of a letter received by Alderman Schlake, signed "Louise Luetchert," in which the missing woman is represented as saying she is living with friends in Chicago.

The letter, the brother and sister say, is not in their sister's handwriting, nor did she spell her name that way. The police laugh at what they call a clumsy fake and intimate that the discovery of the letter's real author, if ever made, will be attended with sensational developments.

Quite a sensation marked the hearing of the habeas corpus proceedings in the Luetgert case. Annie Grieser, who was employed by the Luetgerts in 1888, positively identified the rings found in the vat as having belonged to Mrs. Luetgert. She described the rings minutely at first and then upon being shown those found in the vat declared they belonged to Mrs. Luetgert.

THE ST. LOUIS ROBBERY.

Information Filed In the Case Charging Ensley With Assault.

St. Louis, June 18.—Information has been filed with Justice of the Peace Crousfelder, charging Martin Ensley with assaulting Charles D. Collins with intent to kill and robbing him of $6,000. The document was sworn to by F. A. Heidhorn, St. Louis county prosecuting attorney at Clayton.

Ensley will be held in jail at Clayton until the result of the terrible blows received by Charles D. Collins at Meramec Highlands Tuesday night shall have been determined.

The accused man's friends have engaged an attorney to defend him. Collins has had a high fever, his head pained him greatly, and he was very restless. Several more wounds have been found on his head, making the total number 14.

Dr. Hittman still fears blood poisoning. The patient has reiterated his opinion that Ensley delivered the blows and said the prisoner knew of his having $6,000 on his person.

FOUND IN THE THAMES.

Body of a Fashionably Dressed Woman Picked Up.

London, June 18.—The body of a fashionably dressed woman, about 30 years of age, was found floating in the Thames near the Tower bridge. In her purse she had some gold and silver, a gold wedding ring and two dress rings, a gold brooch and other articles, and on a key ring also found upon her were some American coins. All the clothing on the body was of the best materials.

This is the seventeenth body found in the lower Thames by the police during the last three weeks. They are believed to be the bodies of suicides, as in nearly all cases valuables were found upon the persons of the drowned. There is nothing mysterious in the finding of the bodies, and the police account for the somewhat unusual number of suicides by the fact that the population of this city has been largely increased by jubilee visitors from the country and by the advent of many foreigners from nearly all parts of the world.

DISAPPEARING GUN CARRIAGES.

Satisfactory Results Obtained With the First One Built In This Country.

Sandy Hook, June 18.—A 12 inch disappearing gun carriage, designed by Captain William Crozier, is being successfully tested before the board of ordnance and fortifications. Captain Frank Heath, commanding officer, is superintending the operations.

He says that this is the first 12 inch disappearing gun carriage ever built in this country, and as far as the test has proceeded she works smoothly and perfectly, but that there are too many vessels in the way to fire, with safety, as many rounds as he desires.

Another Gordon disappearing carriage for a 10 inch rifle is also undergoing a trial at the proving ground. Captain Crozier successfully designed 8 and 10 inch disappearing carriages, some of which are now installed in fortifications.

FOUND IN THE RUINS.

Parts of Human Bodies Discovered In the Delevan Hotel Debris.

Albany, June 18.—While clearing away the ruins of the Delevan House, which was burned on Dec. 31, 1894, workmen have found the remains of three bodies that perished in the fire. The remains were only a half burned skull, parts of the pelvis bones of three persons, a thigh bone, some vertebræ and numerous small bones, and they are identified as the remains of Mary Carry, Bridget Fitzgibbons and Thomas Cannon.

The three whose bones were found were hotel servants and occupied rooms under the roof in a corner of the building. Of the 14 persons who lost their lives in the fire all are now accounted for except Nogenta Sturena, a servant, who slept on the top floor.

Cannot Land Cables.

Washington, June 18.—The president has refused permission to the Compagne Francais Cables Telegraphique to land the new cable of that company at Cape Cod, or indeed anywhere upon the United States coast. The question that was raised through the French embassador as to the power of the federal government to deny admission to the cable will be referred to the attorney general for an opinion, but meantime the executive branch of the government holds to the doctrine that such landing can be only by express authorization of congress.

DEMANDS UPON SPAIN

The President Will Send Them to Madrid by Gen. Woodford.

WILL INSIST ON PEACE FOR CUBA.

Mediation Is Offered—Independence on Payment of Indemnity Is One of the Terms Proposed—American Rights Must Always Be Respected.

Washington, June 18.—General Stewart L. Woodford, the new minister to Spain, will take to Madrid President McKinley's note offering the mediation of the United States to bring about the termination of the war in Cuba.

This note has been in course of preparation for some weeks and will be ready for the new minister as soon as he is ready to sail for his post.

When General Woodford goes to Madrid, a new consul general will succeed General Fitz Hugh Lee at Havana.

Frank Aldrich of Chicago will be the man who will look after American interests at Havana.

The appointment of General Woodford and the immediate prospect of a change in the consul generalship at Havana show that President McKinley's Cuban policy is fully formulated and that from now on Spain will hear of nothing from the United States but a demand that the war shall be ended and that the rights of American citizens shall be protected.

Contents of the Note.

The president's note, which will be intrusted to Minister Woodford is, first, a demand that Spain shall pay indemnity for the outrages suffered by Americans at the hands of Spanish citizens in Cuba.

The next demand is that the violations of the treaty rights of American citizens shall cease.

After that the letter in bold terms will express to Spain the conviction of the president that the war in Cuba is to Spain a hopeless one and will convey the intimation that the refusal by Spain to negotiate for peace in Cuba will be followed by the prompt recognition of the belligerent rights of the Cuban revolutionists.

The note will then convey to Spain the assurance of the willingness of the United States to mediate between Spain and Cuba on a basis that will assure the independence of the island on the payment of an indemnity to Spain by Cuba, the indemnity not to exceed the amount of interest on the debt of Spain already paid out of the revenues levied in Cuba.

Demands Supported by Facts.

There will be no lack of facts to support the demands which will be made in the note. All the facts which have been gathered by Special Commissioner Calhoun with regard to the Ruiz case and all of the representations of Consul General Lee concerning similar outrages on American citizens in Cuba will be cited to bring Spain to a course of reason.

In addition to these all the facts and figures about the property losses suffered by American citizens through the policy of the Spanish government, as reported to the state department by United States consular officials in Cuba, will be cited to show that matters have gone beyond the limit of forbearance.

Other consular reports will be quoted from to show that since the war began there has been a steady gain of strength on the part of the revolutionists and that they now control a greater portion of the territory of the island than that which acknowledges the supremacy of Spain.

This part of the representations of the note will go to prove the assertion that Cuba is virtually already beyond the power of Spain to pacify.

Will Woodford Wait Until August?

London, June 18.—The Madrid correspondent of The Standard says: "Hitherto no embassador has ever presented his credentials while the court was sojourning at San Sebastian. Therefore, it is not expected that General Stewart L. Woodford will arrive before the autumn. In the meantime Mr. Hannis Taylor accompanies the queen regent and court to San Sebastian. I understand that the attitude of the United States will be based chiefly upon the reports presented by Mr. W. J. Calhoun and the American consuls as to Cuban conditions."

Debs' New Commonwealth.

Chicago, June 18.—Eugene V. Debs' new project, involving in its details the death of the American Railway union and the formation of a co-operative colonization undertaking, was put under way at Uhlich's hall last night, when the preamble to the constitution for the proposed organization which is to succeed the American Railway union was laid before the delegates. The meeting, which was a secret session, was well attended, many women being among the delegates. The name proposed by Mr. Debs is the Social Democracy of America, and this name was incorporated in the preamble.

Agricultural Society Sells Out.

Richmond, June 18.—The grounds of the Virginia Agricultural and Mechanical society, known as Camp Lee, have been sold to John L. Williams, a banker, for $50,000. The society owes about $70,000. Seven thousand dollars represent unpaid purses and premiums, which will now never be paid. The sale puts the society out of existence. Mr. Williams represents a large number of bondholders.

Embezzler Sentenced.

Denver, June 18.—Matt Adams, ex-clerk of the district court, who was found guilty of the embezzlement of county funds, has been sentenced to state prison for five years. After the discovery of a $60,000 shortage in his accounts Adams fled to England, whence he was extradited last year.

WORK OF THE CREWS

Some of the Colleges Show Great Form In Practice.

WITNESSED BY EXPERT COACHERS.

Cornell's Men Were Attended to by Courtney, Who Is Greatly Pleased With Them—Columbia and Harvard Also In Good Shape.

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., June 18.—The college crews were all late in getting out for last evening's practice, as the contact of wind and tide made a choppy sea, which did not subside until almost 6 o'clock. At that hour the water became tranquil and Coach Courtney ordered his three crews into their boats, taking them out to do an exhibition mile for the benefit of Dr. Walter Peet, the well known coach and rowing expert, and a representative of the press, who were in the launch with Courtney.

This mile proved to be a magnificent exhibition of speed, and it indicated that the crew which beats Cornell must be a remarkably fast one. The three Ithaca boats went up the river at a leisurely pace of 28 strokes a minute to the two mile mark of the course, where Courtney turned them around and lined them up for a race.

The varsity boat had the west course, with the freshmen next and the substitute crew to the east of them, but they were all in the middle of the river, so that none had an advantage of tide.

The subs got a little the best of the start by about one quarter of a length over the varsity, who in time led the freshmen by about the same distance. There was no material change in this order over the mile. The tide carried the crews almost 100 yards below the mark, so the trial lacked just that distance of being a full mile.

The crews started off at a 32 stroke, the varsity taking the water in fine style, with the freshmen almost as well, and toward the end they hit the stroke up to 34. The rowing was characterized by spirit and snap. The time was 4 minutes and 15 seconds, and, allowing 16 seconds for the distance not rowed at the start, gives the very fast time of 4 minutes 34 seconds.

Dr. Peet was strongly impressed with the crews, the varsity especially. "It is a very fine eight," he said, "and they are rowing beautifully. I believe that the race will be worth going 1,000 miles to see."

Witnessed by Expert Coaches.

The exhibition was witnessed by Dr. Percy Bolton and Alfred Cowles, who, next to Bob Cook, are the foremost Yale coaches, and who followed the crews on a yacht. They were deeply impressed with the exhibition. Captain Spillman rowed at his old place in the varsity boat last evening. He has been troubled with an injury to his wrist which he cannot account for. It has been very painful, but was so much better yesterday that he was allowed to row.

Courtney is very anxious to keep Spillman in the boat. He waxed enthusiastic when speaking of the young man, and said: "Why, it seems as if there is a whole extra horsepower in the boat when Spillman rows. He inspires the crew to a degree that is incomprehensible. I shall make every effort to keep him in the crew if I can. I fear, though, that he will favor the injured wrist.

"Spillman rowed at No. 6, succeeding Oddie, who has been taking his place. There was no other change in the crew. The Harvard crews have had a very easy day.

Harvard's Showing.

Examinations kept them from rowing in the morning, and last evening the varsity took a pull of only about two miles. It looks somewhat as if Lehman has got the crew down fine and is now working them moderately for fear of their going stale.

While this is quite a popular theory some of the experts who saw the crew expressed the opinion that none of the crew is in this danger, with the possible exception of Captain Goodrich. The freshmen rowed about four miles, being coached by Mr. Storrow. The advent of Cornell has frightened Columbia. Coach Cowles saw the Ithacans row yesterday, and it is said that the blue and white eight is on the eve of a big shake up.

There was one change in the boat last evening, Lewis being taken out of No. 3 seat and Elmer being put in his place. There were changes in the freshman boat, too. Rionda, who has been sick, went back to No. 3, Gardner was moved to bow, and Mortimer was taken out.

Columbia's Time Not Extra.

The Columbia crews had a very hard day, for Cowles made each of them row fully 20 miles. The varsity crew rowed a mile against time in the evening. Their time was not given out, but it is no secret that it was nearly a minute slower than that made by Cornell.

Before that they had a burst of 2½ miles with the freshmen. The youngsters had half a length the best of the varsity at the start, and finished that reach ahead of the varsity, having lost about two lengths through erratic steering. Francis S. Bangs, president of the University Athletic union and manager of the Cornell-Columbia-Pennsylvania race, is visiting at the Columbia quarters.

The Pennsylvanians.

The three Pennsylvania crews left their boathouse at 5 p. m., Coach Ward again using the Willawalla to follow them, and all rowed slowly up the course for a hard pull back with the tide. The varsity crew started a mile above the mark, where the course commences, and as they passed the start the second varsity, or substitute crew, picked them up. "Now boys, don't race. Just go a good clip," said Ward. But the substitutes were bound to have a race, and they hit up the stroke at a lively rate.

At the end of the four miles the varsity was one-eighth of a mile behind them. The freshmen fell in at the second mile and finished one length ahead of the second crew. The varsitys did not exert themselves to the utmost, and they were in the cedar shell, which has shown itself to be slower than the Watters boats.

Struck by an Express Train.

Little Falls, N. Y., June 18.—The Adirondack express struck a carriage containing Samuel Stimson and Miss Schermerhorn at the Main street crossing in Herkimer. Stimson was instantly killed and Miss Schermerhorn is dying.

PROHIBITION PLEDGE.

Waiting an Exceptionally Long Time for a Haircut.

Strange Family Resolution Faithfully Kept by John Hanover, of Delaware, O.—His Record as a Soldier.

John Hanover, one of the best-known residents of Delaware, O., carries out a trait in the chain of relationship in his family which dates back many years, starting in the time of his great-grandfather. The Hanovers are people of strong ideas, and when they settle on one point which is a matter that they regard as right, they adhere to it, regardless of the opinion of the public and even the consequences. This peculiarity, which has passed down from one generation to another, is the pledge that none of the male portion of the family shall ever cut their hair until the time arrives when the United States shall have elected to the presidential chair a member of the prohibition party.

John Hanover, the grandfather, after whom the subject of the sketch was named, was one of the old-time Baptist ministers of Ohio, and was probably the most active member of that belief in his day. He preached to the people of that inclination in large assemblies, where Columbus, Newark, Johnstown Westerville, Worthington and Delaware now stand. He wore his hair in large braids until they reached his belt line. So has John Hanover, until age is depriving him of the pride of his life. He was born on December 12, 1827, thus making him 70 years of age. His hair hangs in long waves to the second button of the Prince Albert coat which he generally wears. He lived in his home county until he was 13 years old, and then moved to Columbus, O., where he lived for 16 years. He enlisted in the Second Ohio Montgomery guards, under Gen. Morgan, which was "raised" by Capt. Walker, late of Mount Vernon, O. Off to the Mexican war he went and remained until six months later, when he was a survivor of a few at the time of the attack at Marine, Mex., when 96 teams and 300 wagons were captured and 1,500 men killed by the enemy. He reenlisted and was in the fights, making a well-earned reputation as a soldier, brave and true to those above him in position. His gallantry on the field has since been rewarded by the government.

JOHN HANOVER.
(The Most Eccentric Man in Ohio.)

He is very popular among the 17 survivors of his regiment, who are left in Ohio, and he has been elected to the highest positions at their reunions, which are held every year, the last occurring in Columbus, O., in early May, this year under the guidance of Capt. Smith, of Newark.

Mr. Hanover, says the Cincinnati Commercial, attracts attention wherever he goes on account of his long hair. One is impressed with his pride of it on sight, as the manner in which he wears it suggests the way he cares for it. It may be said that there is no lady who is prouder of her growth of hair than Mr. Hanover is of his, and none takes more care of it than he does. For a man 70 years of age his growth of hair is considered one of the most remarkable things known. He keeps the ends trimmed nicely, and says that he will have it cut off when there is a prohibition president elected in the United States—the same statement made in his family for generations past. He is a good citizen and an industrious, honest man. He is in the best of health and says he attributes his strength to his growth of hair, and believes devoutly in the Biblical story that Samson's strength lay in his hair.

Glass Shelves for Books.

Professional men, whose libraries are in constant use, realize how expensive the wear of books is from damage to bindings on the shelves. A highly polished wooden shelf is as bad as one that is painted or cloth-covered, because it burns the edges of the volumes, while a rough shelf scrapes them. Books handled soon show damage on the ends. If not handled, they become musty and dirty. Books require air, and unless the cases are light they accumulate much dust. A well-known book firm has lately been importing glass shelves from France. The edges are rounded. The glass is inflexible, which gives it great advantage over wood. Its strength has been proved. It is more easily kept clean than other shelving. The appearance of the library is greatly enhanced. The book people who have used it are enthusiastic in their praise. Its cost is about that of iron, but if it could be produced in this country it would be much less expensive.

Veins of Gold in a Volcano.

A short time ago a woodchopper discovered some gold nuggets on the volcano of San Martin, near San Andrestutla, Mexico. The discovery led to prospecting by experienced miners, and some remarkably rich veins of ore have been found. The formation is peculiar, and the discoveries cause surprise in mining and geological circles.

HOW MUCH SHOULD WE SMILE?

Leave Expression of Face to Take Care of Itself.

The "pleasant expression" is of great use to the photographer. The good mother tries constantly to imprint it upon her children's faces. Everyone agrees that a certain kindness and charity should beam forth from the eye—yet the face which wears a perpetual smile is usually a weak one, always a tiresome one. Its owner seems always to have been reading only the "humorous pages," skimming only the surface, thinking only of amusement, and never to have buckled down to the real battle of life. It is only honest effort in this struggle which entitles a man to respect, and he must wear some sign of having engaged in it before a casual acquaintance can esteem him. It is hardly possible to smile all the time without appearing more or less silly, and as though one appreciated little of [illegible] existence.

[illegible] of the [illegible] musicians in a certain [illegible] city, who has done really fine work and ought to stand among the first [illegible] men in America in his calling, is undervalued and lightly spoken of by his associates. He wears a perpetual smile, and many have attributed to this cause his failure to win the place which he deserves.

A lady, in speaking of two brothers, remarked that one of them was socially far inferior to the other.

"Theron enters a room with a perfectly serious look on his face," she said, "and everybody wants to know him at once and longs to see his rare smile. Then comes Harry, smirking and grinning, and nobody has any interest in him whatever. Yet Harry is a fine fellow, and if he would only cultivate a little more dignity he might be as popular and as much sought after by the best people as Theron."

Amiability and evenness of temper are among the most essential qualities of a sane character, but no man need simper continually to demonstrate his sweetness.

Ruskin says that all great generals have been serious men, and Emerson affirms the same of all great orators. The distinguished Tom Marshall, one of the wittiest men who ever lived, bade his son observe that the public monuments are always erected to the solemn men; and Dr. Austin Phelps remarks: "Two classes of men are never buffoons—very great men and very good men."

It is generally safe to leave the expression of one's face to take care of itself, and to devote one's efforts mainly to the formation of character. If a man really busies himself with weighty affairs, reads the "funny papers" only in moderation and as a sort of intellectual dessert, avoids the journals which treat flippantly of public questions and great national and moral movements, and tries incessantly to find truth and pursue it, he will usually have an expression which matches his character; but the eminently social and kindly man, though he may be good at heart and not silly in mind, must be on his guard lest people denise, not his youth, like Timothy's, but his whole mental and moral endowment, if he wears an habitual smile—or the conclusion of the old poet voices the instinctive feeling of all mankind:

"Eternal smiles but emptiness betray,
As shallow streams run dimpling all the way.

—Leslie's Weekly.

HELPS IN LAUNDRY WORK.

Six Hints Given by an Experienced Laundress.

Sort your clothes in five grades. First, towels, table and bed linen; second, family linen; third, light colored clothes; fourth, dark colored clothes; fifth, flannels and stockings.

Have plenty of the best soap, with borax, starch and blueing at hand. Add borax to the water in the proportion of one tablespoonful to a pailful of water. Colored cotton clothing of delicate shades should have the color set before washing. Add of salt a heaping tablespoonful to each pailful of cold water, and do not apply soap directly to the article.

In cold weather dry indoors to prevent freezing. A little kerosene oil put in the hot starch will prevent it from sticking.

A teaspoonful of borax to a quart of cold starch will make it stiff. Table cloths should have as few creases in them as possible. Crease them twice lengthwise; have them very damp and iron them perfectly dry; fold over once or twice, according to their lengths, and place them carefully in a long drawer.

Fold napkins square with the initial on the outside. They should always be ironed perfectly dry; then put away neatly in the drawer.—Chicago Tribune.

Potato Dumpling.

Boil five or six good-sized potatoes with jackets on. Place on top of the stove to dry when done, taking care to drain off all water. Peel and mash very fine, adding one teaspoonful of salt and a pint of sweet milk. When sufficiently cool, stir in one-half of a yeast cake that has been previously soaked in warm water, and mix in flour enough to make a stiff dough. Set in a warm place, and when light mold into little dumplings and let them rise as for biscuit; place on top of the potpie and let steam 30 minutes, keeping covered close. If using an inside tin, referred to above, place them on that to rise, as it will save handling. This is nice with chicken or duck. If duck is used, parboil it first in a little soda water.—Housekeeper.

He Ought to Get Her.

She—How did you manage to get my beautiful bicycle home through all this storm and not a spot on it?

He—It was nothing, my dear. I put my overcoat over one wheel, lashed my umbrella over the other and then carried the wheel. I only did my duty.

"Your heroic devotion has conquered, Harold. May it carry you through an interview with papa."—Detroit Free Press.

Tompkins' New Store,

NO. 8 EAST MAIN STREET.

GREAT SPECIAL SALE, BEGINNING MONDAY, JUNE 21, AND CONTINUING FOR ONE WEEK

Ten weeks ago J. W. Tompkins set the wheels of popular prices going in Middletown. Other merchants said we could not keep it up. To-day they buzz faster than ever. By having a resident buyer in New York city, who is continually on the lookout for any goods, no matter how large the quantity, so long as they can be bought under the regular prices for spot cash; by selling to one and all for cash only, and not having book accounts and bad debts, and turning our money over many times in the course of a year on a very small margin of profits; by always refunding money cheerfully and promptly if you buy anything of us that does not suit or fit; on these broad principles we run our business, and from the crowds who attend our store daily you can know that the people appreciate our efforts. It will be our constant aim to make The New Store better each day—better in service and better in low prices.

Gladness Comes

With a better understanding of the transient nature of the many physical ills, which vanish before proper efforts—gentle efforts—pleasant efforts—rightly directed. There is comfort in the knowledge, that so many forms of sickness are not due to any actual disease, but simply to a constipated condition of the system, which the pleasant family laxative, Syrup of Figs, promptly removes. That is why it is the only remedy with millions of families, and is everywhere esteemed so highly by all who value good health. Its beneficial effects are due to the fact, that it is the one remedy which promotes internal cleanliness without debilitating the organs on which it acts. It is therefore important, in order to get its beneficial effects, to note when you purchase, that you have the genuine article, which is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only and sold by all reputable druggists.

If in the enjoyment of good health, and the system is regular, laxatives or other remedies are then not needed. If afflicted with any actual disease, one may be commended to the most skillful physicians, but if in need of a laxative, one should have the best, and with the well-informed everywhere, Syrup of Figs stands highest and is most largely used and gives most general satisfaction.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure Deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed Deafness is the result and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

The Fashion Changed in This as in All Other Things.

"The tune of the time" changes for scholarship as for all the pursuits of men. We look back with a certain respectable amazement to the days when every scholar wrote in Latin and denounced those who were immoral enough to disagree with his views as putrid, unsavory miscreants. It is not so long since Hebrew was regarded as an almost essential part of the panoply of a well-accoutered classic. Fifty years hence English scholars, looking back upon the history of classical study in the nineteenth century, will probably note with surprise that in England it was distinguished by one prominent feature, the serious practice of Greek and Latin verse translation.

It cannot be denied that this has been a prominent feature. While England was lagging as far behind Germany in philological as in theological research, she was elaborating verse composition into the form of a fine art. So much brains, so much knowledge, so much taste was spent on the practice, so much pleasure was won from it, that the creation of a tenth Muse charged to preside over Latin and Greek translations as her special sphere, might have seemed at the court of Parnassus in the '50's, '60's and '70's as a desirable reform. But of late this fashion has been declining, and it may soon become obsolete. English scholarship has been entering upon new paths, wooing the favor of grimmer divinities. We have been toiling all night to overtake Germany, and now we are groaning under the yoke of facts and statistics and other wearisome inventions. We have been invaded by sciences—by archaeology in all her disguise, by comparative philology, even by folk-lore. Syntax has also been developed into an analysis of such ghastly form and feature that, if Plato and Cicero had seen it in a vision, they would never have had the heart to write. Not a year passes but we have some disconcerting addition to our knowledge and have to prepare a "new map with the augmentation of the Indies." A friend once speaking of the Giant's Causeway observed to me that it did not please him; it looked "too scientific." Classical scholarship is growing too scientific. It will soon become a branch of mathematics.—London Saturday Review.

JUDGE FOR YOURSELF.

Which is Better, Try and Experimet or Profit by an Middletown Citizen's Experience.

Something new is an experiment.
Must be proven to be as represented.
Be successful at home or you doubt it.
The statements of a manufacturer are not convincing proof of merit.
But the endorsement of a friend is.
Now, supposing you had a bad back.
A lame, weak or aching one.
Would you experiment on it?
You will read of many so-called cures.
But they come from far-away places.
It's different when the indorsement comes from home
Easy to prove that it is so.
Home indorsement is the proof that backs every box of Doan's Kidney Pills.
Read this case:

C. R. Truesdale, No. 108 North street, says. "When you find out a good thing that would be of no loss to you if you should tell your friends, push it along in keeping with its merits. For four or five years my kidneys have bothered me. Pain in the lower part of the back and in one side proved this. It is possible it arose from a strain while lifting, because I frequently exert myself in that way. Often in the morning I could hardly get out of bed, my back was so painful and stiff. If I caught cold I was always worse, for it settled in my back. Stooping over or occupying any position that strained my back hurt me. I tried every remedy I knew about, and lots prescribed by friends. They were useless. I tried Doan's Kidney Pills, procuring them from J. E. Mills' drug store. They cured me. I never felt better in my life. Doan's Kidney Pills deserve all the credit for it. I shall do all I can to tell others of their merits and the personal benefit I have received."

Doan's Kidney Pills are sold for 50 cents per box or six boxes for $2.50. Foster—Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States. Sent by mail on receipt of price. For sale by all dealers.

Remember the name, Doan's, and take no substitute.

"They are dandies" said Thomas Bowers, of the Crocket, Texas, Enterprise, while writing about DeWitt's Little Early Risers, the famous little pills for sick headache and disorders of the stomach and liver.

FRIDAY, JUNE 18, 1897.

Gen. Gomez, commander of the Cuban forces, indulges in no dreams that the intervention of the United States will help the Cuban cause. He says that whatever Cuba wins will have to be won by force of arms and is preparing for an aggressive campaign, probably in the province of Havana.

The coal company of which Mark Hanna is the head has notified the miners at its mine near Monongahela City of a reduction in wages of from sixty cents to fifty-four cents a ton,—the lowest price ever paid in the Pittsburgh coal district. The miners are well organized and will resist this attempt to make them share in McKinley prosperity.

Senator Tillman's cynical attitude toward the tariff bill is a source of annoyance to the Republicans. He encourages them to load the bill as heavily as possible with indefensible and unnecessary duties and frankly says that the more of this they do the more quickly a disgusted people will turn them and their party out of office.

Lakewood, N. J., is likely to prove an inhospitable haven for George Gould and other millionaires who claim residences there in order to escape assessment in New York. The State Board of Assessors wants to know how it comes that the personal assessment of a town in which so many millionaires reside is only $385,000, and the Board voted Thursday to revise the whole assessment of Lakewood unless the local assessors do their duty and make their assessments as required by law.

A child in Mecklenberg county, N. C., is reported to have bitten off and eaten the head of a small snake which was concealed in the stalk of an onion that she was eating. The discovery was made by the child's grandmother, who, after the little one had taken a mouthful from the onion stalk, saw blood issuing from the girl's mouth and made an investigation. The story is a most unpleasant one, but it is hardly worth feeling crawly about, for Mecklenberg county's snake liar has an imagination that is vivid beyond belief.

In all the counties of the State real estate is to be assessed, this year, at its full value and many millions of personal property, which have heretofore escaped assessment, will be placed on the assessors' rolls. The effect will be to so enormously increase the assessed valuation of the State that the tax rate of 2.67, fixed by the last Legislature, will yield a very large surplus revenue, probably not less than $4,000,000. With such a fund in the State treasury what a carnival of extravagance and corruption there will be in Albany next winter if the Republican party is continued in control of the Legislature.

IN THE RAILROAD WORLD.

CORRESPONDENT SHRIVER SET FREE

A Verdict of Acquittal Ordered in the Sugar Trust Witness's Case.

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.

WASHINGTON, June 18.—Judge Bradley, this morning, instructed the jury in the case of Shriver, the newspaper correspondent on trial for contempt of the Senates sugar trust investigation committee, to bring in a verdict of acquittal.

The judge's decision was based on two points: first, that the witness had not been legally summoned; second, that the question asked him was not pertinent.

The contention of the defense that communications to newspaper men are privileged, the same as communications to priests, lawyers and physicians, was not sustained by the Court, except that it was held to ask the witness the name of his informant was not a pertinent question. This is regarded as establishing a precedent.

Appalling Ruin Wrought in the Province of Assam, India—Shocks Still Felt.

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.

CALCUTTA, June 18—Almost the whole of the province of Assam has been devastated by an earthquake. The ruin is appalling. Courts, treasuries, jails and hospitals have collapsed. The loss of food supplies is enormous. Crops are mostly ruined and great scarcity of food is expected. A number of roads have been completely demolished.

Earthquake shocks still continue to be felt in Assam and much alarm is felt. Heavy rains have greatly increased the damage.

FISHERMEN'S GOSSIP.

Some Tales of the Wallkill Which Were Talked Over To-day.

This has been a dull day in business circles, and not a few have fretted away the monotonous hours while talking and thinking of the shady spots along the local fishing banks.

Frank Lewis, the well known fisherman-hunter-horseradish salesman, etc., of New Hampton, added to the weariness of the day by telling a party of fishermen of a three hundred and ninety-two pound bass he caught in the lagoon in the old Wallkill near the bridge east of New Hampton. Said he:

"You know how aniggah lufs fish! Well, say! I was afishin' 'long where the old covered bridge used to be when I see a big black bass a layin' over a nes' jes' waving his old tail there to beat the band. You know how a niggah's lips watahs! I jes' gets a few little worms an' I puts 'em on my hook in a bunch, an' lets them down unda' that bass' mouth. He swallered them, hook an' all and this niggah threw him upon the bank quicker'n cats. I puts him in my pocket and dusted to home and I eat him darn quick. Say! you ain't got an old pole and a reel you don't want have you?"

Frank was luckier than Emil Martini, who caught a big fellow in the rifts at the Phillipsburgh dam, Thursday afternoon. The fish broke water twice and then succeeded in breaking loose. Emil states that he was the largest bass that ever got away.

The local fishermen are not landing many good-sized ones as yet. The water is too high and too roily for good sport.

Frank Lewis states that the "sign" is wrong. It is in the leg and should be in the feet.

Many of the bass are still hovering over the spawning beds and they can readily be seen in clear running water.

STRUCK BY AN ERIE TRAIN.

William Doyle's Wagon Wrecked at Genung Street Crossing, To-day.

When William Doyle, a teamster, living on South Stanton street, was driving a sand wagon near the Genung street crossing of the Erie, to-day at 1 o'clock, he failed to hear the approach of No. 11, the local west bound passenger train. When right on the tracks he saw his danger and jumped from the wagon, ran to the horses' heads and endeavored to swing the team around. The engine, No. 362, struck the wagon amidships, carrying off the two rear wheels and wrecking the remainder completely.

Neither Mr. Doyle nor the horses received any injury. The train was stopped in a very short distance, and on the conductor's learning that no serious damage was done continued on to this city.

Erie No. 6, going east, had just passed the crossing, which accounts for Mr. Doyle's failure to hear the approach of No. 11.

I had five of the best physicians in the city, but I received very little relief from them. MAPES' BALANCED RATION FOR POULTRY.

We have long felt that there is room upon the market for a cheap effective poultry food.

Mr. O. W. Mapes, of the Electric Poultry Yards, is making a special study of the science of feeding a hen, and we have arranged with him to make such a food.

It is made exclusively from wheat, oats, corn and meat, mixed in just such proportions as science and practice have proven will give the nutritive elements needed for best results. We shall be pleased to have our customers give it a trial. This food is equally good for growing chickens or laying hens.

—Charles Durant, the Pine Bush train fireman, has been laying off since May 1. He has stomach difficulties which neither local physicians nor a New York specialist have been able to cure. Dr. Currie, of Searsville, is now attending him and some improvement is shown.

FUNERAL OF C. G. HEDGE.

Remains Taken to Sinsbury, Conn., for Burial.

Funeral services were held over the remains of C. G. Hedge, Thursday night, at his home, corner of Wickham avenue and North street, Rev. J. Newton Emery officiating. There was a large attendance of relatives and friends.

This morning the remains were taken to Sinsbury, Conn., for burial.

The pall bearers from Hoffman Lodge were: Ira L. Case, C. C. Lutes, John A. Wallace, E. B. Quick, John Ketcham and Jacob Gunther.

This party went to Fishkill, where they were met by a party of three Masons from Piatt Lodge, of New York city, of which the deceased was a member, and three o Hoffman's members, Messrs. Wallace, Quick and Ketcham, joined them for the remainder of the trip, and the others then returned home. Undertaker W. N. Knapp accompanied the remains to Sinsbury, Conn.

A VERY YOUNG HORSE THIEF.

Two Horses Stolen in Two Days by an Eight-Year-Old Newburgh Boy.

Eddie Leghorn, an eight-year-old Newburgh boy and small of his age, stole a horse and wagon that were tied on DuBois street in that city, Wednesday, and drove to Cornwall and back. The rig was found in his possession by an officer who was looking for it. He took the boy to police headquarters where an attempt was made to frighten him by intimating that he would be hanged to a lamp post or sent to jail for life. The boy was then allowed to go, but that he was not scared by police talk was shown, Thursday, when he stole a farmer's rig that had been left standing on Broadway and started to drive to Glenwood Park. The rig was soon taken from him and later the boy was arrested and this time he was locked up.

J. C. Halligan Will Leave Bellevue Hospital This Week.

Mrs. J. C. Halligan went to New York city, this morning, having received a dispatch from Bellevue Hospital that her husband would be discharged from the hospital, this week, and would probably be sent to one of the institutions for the insane near New York city. She hopes to secure his removal to the State Hospital in this city.

A letter received from Mr. Halligan's sister, Thursday, states that he is still out of his head. He talks rationally at times, however, and wants to know when his wife will call at the hospital.

Mrs. Van Keuren, of North street and Wickham avenue, is taking a deep interest in Mrs. Halligan's trouble, and will be her representative during her absence.

WILL TROT AT ELMIRA.

Some of E. H. Harriman's Horses Taken to Elmira by Trainer Ryerson To-day

Trainer Ira Ryerson was a passenger on Erie train 21, to-day. He limped out to the station here and informed a party of hand-shakers that one of the horses in the private stock car next to the engine had stepped on his foot. In the car were six of E. H. Harriman's horses en route to the Elmira races. They were: Rival, B. S., Batter, Sindalia, Elsie S. and Lavonia.

The first start will be on Tuesday, and Mr. Ryerson hopes to land something.

A Dutchess County Justice's Droll Warrant.

'Squire Cutler, of Rhinecliff, recently issued a warrant for the arrest of Anna Ackert on complaint of her mother, which was something of a curiosity, since it charges her with "being abusive and all so with being a nusance and of committing an assault upon one Maria Barber at Rhinecliff, N. Y., and of having a danegeris toung and uses it to the anovance of hear nabors."

Left Very Bitter Feelings.

One of the unfortunate results of the Newburgh fire parade is to deepen and intensify the jealousy and unfriendliness existing between that city and Poughkeepsie. The Poughkeepsians think that they were badly treated in some respects, and the Poughkeepsie papers do not hesitate to say so.

Caught the Train, However.

The Adams Express wagon, which was due to catch O. and W. No. 1, was a little late this morning. The driver ran his horse through North street to Wickham avenue and so on to Low avenue without accident and just managed to catch the train. He made the distance from North street in one minute.

A Suggestion to the Erie Authorities.

At a Special Term of the Supreme Court of the State of New York, held at the Supreme Chambers, in the city of Newburgh, Orange county, N. Y., on the 8d day of April, 1897.

Present: Hon. Michael H Hirschberg, Justice.

In the matter of the application for a voluntary dissolution of The Middletown Casino Theatre Company, of Middletown, N. Y.

On reading and filing the petition of Edward A. Brown, William D. Stratton, Horace W. Corey and Isaac F. VanBuren, as the Trustees and Directors of the Middletown Casino Theatre Company of Middletown, N. Y. (a corporation duly created under the laws of the State of New York, having its principal office in the city of Middletown, N. Y.), and the schedule thereto annexed, duly verified by the said petitioners on the 1st day of March, 1897, and now on motion of Daniel Finn, of counsel for the petitioners,

It is ordered that all persons interested in the said corporation show cause before this Court, before William F O'Neil, Esq., who is hereby appointed Referee for that purpose, at his office, No 75 North street, in the city of Middletown, Orange county, N. Y., on the 13th day of July, 1897, at ten o'clock in the forenoon of that day, why said corporation should not be dissolved, and why the prayer of the said petitioner should not be granted.

And it is further ordered that the said Referee proceed in accordance with the law and practice of this Court, and that he report thereon with all convenient speed.

And it is further ordered that this order be published once in each week for the three weeks immediately preceding the time herein fixed to show cause in the Middletown Daily Press and the MIDDLETOWN DAILY ARGUS, newspapers published in the city of Middletown, Orange county, N. Y., where the principal office of the said corporation is located, and also in the Albany Argus a newspaper published in the city of Albany, New York.

And it is further ordered that a copy of this order be served upon each of the persons specified in the schedule annexed to the said petition as a creditor or stockholder of said corporation, or as a person to whom an engagement of said corporation is to be performed, other than those persons therein specified, whose residence is stated to be unknown, or to be without the United States; such service to be made either personally at least twenty days before the time appointed for the hearing as above set forth, or by depositing a copy of this order at least forty days before the time so appointed in the postoffice at Middletown, N. Y., enclosed in post-paid wrapper, addressed to the person to be served, at his residence, as stated in said schedule.

HELEN'S TWO LOVERS.

BY ANNA SHIELDS.

WAS he glad? Was he sorry? Did he feel triumphant? Did he feel bitterly ashamed?

Will Spencer asked himself these questions over and over, wearying of the repetition, and yet never able to end it by saying heartily that he was glad and triumphant, or bitterly that he was sorry and ashamed. The plain fact stared him ever in the face, that Helen Raymond did not love him, and that Mrs. Raymond had urged his suit, and exerted her maternal influence and eloquence until Helen had consented to be his wife, telling him very frankly that her heart was in the grave of her lover, George Vanhorn, who had been killed in a railway collision nearly one year before.

"Mother was never willing I should marry George," Helen said, sadly, "because he was poor, and we have suffered all that poverty can inflict. He was on his way to Colorado, where his brother has been successful, when he was killed."

Will Spencer winced, for he was rich, very rich, but then he put to the wound that soothing salve, "I will win her love when she is my wife," that has wrecked so many lives. It may come, this love that will not be hidden, to a man and wife, after they are bound together for life, but the risk is great, and Will Spencer knew it.

Yet he cherished the delusion that love in the end would win a return, and he knew his own love to be strong and enduring. He had stepped back when George Vanhorn was met with such a smile, for he could never win, had kept from pressing his suit when the name of Helen's lover appeared on the list of the killed in the account of the railway collision, but after the lapse of several months he had won Mrs. Raymond to his side, and so, by proxy, wooed Helen and won—what? a cold, reluctant consent to be his wife.

Yet she was not cold, this girl of 20, whose heart had been crushed ever since the day when George Vanhorn's name was recorded as dead. He could have told how her eyes could soften with love's tenderness, her cheeks burn with love's blushes, her low, sweet, voice tremble with love's whispered words. He had won what all the Spencer gold, the riches of long generations, could not buy.

Before that fatal railway collision she was a bright, beautiful girl, with large, expressive brown eyes, a voice of music, the step of a fairy, singing as a bird sings, from sheer joyousness of heart, bringing a jest to all the household worries, laughing merrily over her own blunders in the culinary department, turning old dresses, renovating old bonnets without a complaint, living on love and hope.

After that day she moved about slowly, her eyes were dull and weary, her duties met with a rigid mechanical precision, her lips compressed, her cheeks pale, a shadow of her joyous self.

Mrs. Raymond was often afraid that she would yet miss the golden prize she had partly won, and heartily seconded Will in his preparations for a speedy wedding. It was Mrs. Raymond who went with him to open the house that he had bought to adorn for his bride, who aided him in the selection of carpets, curtains, furniture, and gave him instructions regarding the kitchen department, of whose needs he was as ignorant as most young bachelors. It was Mrs. Raymond who received an anonymous letter containing a liberal sum, which she quietly appropriated for a trousseau and a suitable dress for the bride's mother.

She was a woman of rare tact. Having won Helen's consent to be Will Spencer's wife, she never bothered her by complaints about her listless indifference to her lover or her future prospects. She simply made all the arrangements for her, without once admitting a possibility of change. The betrothal was spoken of on all occasions, the preparation of the house, the selection of the trousseau referred to, in matter-of-fact words that made Helen feel, as it was intended she should, that she had walked into a net from which there was no escape.

And Will Spencer knew it all, and writhed under the knowledge, being a frank, loyal man, whose impulses were generous and honorable, and who loved Helen with all the strength of his heart. Often he asked himself how he could endure life, if he found his wife a faithful slave, instead of the happy companion he hoped to make her.

"If she never loves me!" he thought, bitterly. "If all my love fails to win hers, what will my life be?"

He did her justice. He knew that if his love failed to win her heart, his gold was powerless to make her happy. He knew that if her mother died or could not be benefited by her marriage, she would rather beg her bread herself than be his wife.

While matters stood in this unsatisfactory state, Mrs. Raymond made a suggestion: "I want you to go away for a month," she said to him, "and let Helen miss the constant devotion that she has had ever since your betrothal. Let her feel that a void has come into her life, and how dull and cheerless it would be if she lost you. The wedding day is set for June 10, and this is April. Stay away until the 5th or 6th of June."

It seemed to him good advice, and he had business in the west that would fill his time profitably. It gave him the first really happy moment of his engagement, when Helen said gently, yet with a shudder:

"I cannot bear to think of you on railway trains, Will. Write often, that I may know you are safe."

Her lips met his in a tender pressure, such as a loving sister might bestow, but with far more affection than she had ever before given him. Was he winning her? The hope made this unexpected absence endurable, and two weeks life held more pleasure than it had done in all the days of his courtship.

Then came a blow, sudden, shattering, overwhelming! He was in a large western city, when, after night, returning to his hotel, a man on crutches asked for charity. The voice was familiar, and, in a shock of horror, the face struck him. One gasping cry escaped him:

"George Vanhorn!"

The man would have hurried away, but he followed easily.

"Let me go, Spencer!" the crippled man pleaded. "I did not recognize you! Don't you know I am dead?"

"I know you are coming in here with me," Will said, gently, substituting his arm for one of the crutches, and entering the hotel where he had a room. "Steady now!" and he led him, feeling how he trembled, until he had him seated in a great arm-chair in his room, and felt his heart stirred with deep compassion at the havoc pain and poverty had made.

He would not let his guest speak until he had ordered a supper and made him comfortable. Then, turning to him, he saw that he was weeping.

"See what a woman you make of me!" the poor fellow said. "You thought I was dead?"

"Yes! All your friends think so."

"It was a narrow escape, and I wonwonder why I was spared. Nine months in a public hospital have left me crippled and incurably ill. They would not keep me after I could get about on crutches, but I have begged or starved, and it will not be for long! I would not let anyone know for fear it would get to—to—Helen!"

"You want to hide from her?"

"Yes—yes! What would her life be tied to mine? You will not betray me, Spencer?"

"But you may recover."

"No! I should be only a wreck if I could, but I cannot. I have internal injuries that the cold and hunger of last winter have increased, fatally."

Will Spencer literally could not speak. This man asked of him only the silence that would give him his wife. Could he let Helen remain in ignorance of this strange adventure the memory of her old love might die away in time.

When he could speak again he led the conversation to Helen. He was very frank, telling George Vanhorn how truly he had been mourned, but saying nothing of his own hopes, and it was easy to see how George had loved her, how utterly self-sacrificing his silence had been. To spare her pain, he had kept from her all knowledge of his own suffering.

But his pride yielded to Will's entreaties to be allowed to befriend him. He was very weak, very ill, and he allowed Will to get him a pleasant room in a quiet boarding house, to furnish him with necessary clothing, to engage a doctor, and to take a brother's place beside him.

And then true, unselfish love triumphed.

"She will never marry me," Will thought, ruefully, as he folded a long, long letter, "but she shall not be cheated out of what little happiness life may still hold for her."

He wrote, too, to Mrs. Raymond, a letter that caused that respectable lady to grind her teeth, but which she obeyed, packing her trunk and accompanying Helen in the journey westward.

It was Will Spencer who met the two at the depot, and accompanied them to the boarding house, where he kept Mrs. Raymond in the parlor after sending Helen upstairs, alone. It was Will Spencer who smoothed away every difficulty, engaging rooms for mother and daughter, and quietly effacing himself.

It were far too long a story to try to record the three months that followed. George Vanhorn was resolute on one point. He would not marry Helen. He had no hope of recovery, but if the unexpected should happen he would not rish ruining Helen's life by binding it to his.

"Oh," she would cry, "what am I to deserve the love of two such men? Mother, it humbles me to think how they love me!"

And by this love her courage was sustained through the three months, when she and her mother smoothed George Vanhorn's path to the grave. Such happiness as could be hers, she knew that she owed to Will Spencer, who showed his love only by his care of the invalid. He never spoke of love to her, giving her up entirely, but upon her lover he lavished every kindness wealth could procure, or friendship dictate. He gave him a brother's devotion until the last parting came, and when he was laid in the cemetery Will Spencer took Helen and Mrs. Raymond back to their home and left them.

It was three years later when he came home from a European tour and called on Mrs. Raymond.

"The old lady, sir, is dead," the servant told him, "an' Miss Helen's livin' in —— street. Maybe yees didn't hear she's come into some money from her uncle, sir, and Mrs. Grady, she's took this house, sir."

Come into some money! Well, she did not need him. He would wait awhile. But in a few days a little note reached him:

"It was unkind to let me hear of your return by accident. Will you not come to see me?"

Would he not? And when he went he could not keep the love out of his eyes or his voice, and she—at last! Her eyes drooped under his gaze, her cheeks blushed for him, her voice faltered, with tenderness. He had won his bride! And he had no secret hidden from her loving eyes, no treachery he would dread to have her discover. By the frankness he had thought would alienate her forever he had won her true, faithful love, a devotion as entire as that she had given in her girlhood to the man he had so nobly befriended.—N. Y. Ledger.

It cures many different diseases because all disease has its origin in the blood. Pure blood is a safeguard against disease. No germ can exist in a perfectly healthy body. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery makes the blood pure. It kills disease germs of whatever kind wherever they are found in the body. It assists in the digestion of the food. It stimulates the action of stomach, liver, bowels, and kidneys. It sends rich, vitalized blood into every fiber of the body and makes firm, solid, healthy flesh.

Any man or woman who is losing flesh and vigor should waste no time in taking this most marvelously effective of all medicines. It will save hundreds of dollars of doctors' bills, and hundreds of days of misery. All good druggists sell it.

Mrs. W. B. Duncan, of Arlington, Phelps Co., Mo., writes: "My husband took four bottles of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery when he was (as he thought) almost into consumption, and we were very thankful that such a medicine could be found. I wish all persons troubled with cough would take it. Long may the 'Golden Medical Discovery' and 'Favorite Prescription' be made. I shall always recommend and praise these medicines."

Any woman who feels that she ought to have a handy, plainly worded, well illustrated medical book in the house, (and what woman does not?) should secure Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser. Dr. Pierce is so well known as chief consulting physician to the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, of Buffalo, N. Y., it isn't worth while to say a word about him. The book's the thing. Until recently this book has sold for $1.50. At that price, 680,000 copies were sold. Now there is an enormous edition of this book, bound in heavy paper, that will be given away, for a limited time, absolutely free to whoever will ask. The book contains 1008 pages. There are 300 illustrations. Send 21 one-cent stamps, to pay cost of mailing only. Cloth-bound book may be had for 10 cent extra—31 cents in all. World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y.

Mrs. Kate Etter

OF MISSOURI,

Is Cured of Heart Disease by Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure.

MRS. KATE ETTER wrote from Neosho, Mo., in March last. "Two years ago I was severely troubled with my stomach and kidneys, and a great affliction so unnerved me that my condition became alarming. The telegraph brought a prominent physician in a consultation which resulted in no benefit. I went to Wyoming for change of climate without benefit, was brought back to Atchison where nurses worked with me night and day to keep me alive to reach my friends here. My heart became so bad that my friends gave up all hope. I began taking Dr. Miles' Heart Cure and Nervine alternately and was restored to health. It is now months since and I am perfectly well."

Dr. Miles' Remedies are sold by all druggists under a positive guarantee, first bottle benefits or money refunded. Book on Heart and Nerves sent free to all applicants.

INTENSE SUFFERING.

FROM DYSPEPSIA AND STOMACH TROUBLE.

Instantly Relieved and Permanently Cured by Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

A New Discovery, But Not a Patent Medicine.

Dr. Redwell relates an interesting account of what he considers a remarkable cure of acute stomach trouble and chronic dyspepsia by the use of the new discovery, Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

He says: The patient was a man who had suffered to my knowledge for years with dyspepsia. Everything he ate seemed to sour and create acid and gases in the stomach; he had pains like rheumatism in the back, shoulder blades and limbs, fullness and distress after eating, poor appetite and loss of flesh; the heart became affected, causing palpitation and sleeplessness at night.

I gave him powerful nerve tonics and blood remedies, but to no purpose. As an experiment I finally bought a fifty cent package of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets at a drug store and gave them to him. Almost immediate relief was given and after he had used four boxes he was to all appearences fully cured.

There were no more acidity or sour watery risings, no bloating after meals, the appetite was vigorous and he had gained between ten to twelve pounds in weight of solid, healthy flesh.

Although Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are advertised and sold in drug stores yet I consider them a most valuable addition to any physician's line of remedies, as they are perfectly harmless and can be given to children or invalids or in any condition of the stomach with perfect safety, being harmless and containing nothing but vegetable and fruit essences, pure pepsin and golden seal.

Without any question they are the safest, most effective cure for indigestion, biliousness, constipation and all derangements of the stomach however slight or severe.

All druggists sell Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets at 50 cents per package.

A little book describing all forms of stomach weakness and their cure mailed free by addressing the Stuart Co., Marshall, Mich.

The spectre

of housecleaning needn't trouble you a moment. The person that dreads housecleaning knows nothing of Pearline—of its easy work, its quickness and comfort, its saving of paint and of rubbing. Go over everything with Pearline—floors, doors, windows, woodwork, paint, marble, stone, glass, carpets, bric-a-brac—and you'll get through any cleaning job in the shortest time, and with the least labor and fuss. You don't need any other help. Pearline is meant to wash everything that water won't hurt, 538

Beware Peddlers and some unscrupulous grocers will tell you, "this is as good as" or "the same as Pearline." IT'S FALSE—Pearline is never peddled; if your grocer sends you an imitation, be honest—send it back. JAMES PYLE, New York.

Not Long to Live.

She was very much concerned about the consumptive-looking man next door.

"Poor fellow," she said. "He hasn't long to live."

"Why do you say that?" she was asked. "You don't know anything about his case."

"Well," she replied. "I was told he was dying by inches, and anyone can see that there isn't more than five feet and one inch of him."—Chicago Post.

A Victim of Prejudice.

"What brought you to this place, my good friend?" inquired a visitor at the prison of a convict.

"A mere matter of opinion got me here, sir."

"Impossible!"

"No, sir. I expressed the opinion that I was innocent, and the jury expressed the opinion that I wasn't. It's a hard world, sir."—Tit-Bits.

IMPIETY COST TRAMP DEAR.

Refused to Read a Chapter from the Bible for His Breakfast and Was Compelled to Saw Wood.

When a tramp called at the home of Jared Cooper, near Desposit, Thursday morning, and asked for something to eat, Mrs. Cooper handed him a large Bible, remarking, "Read a chapter in the good book and I'll give you a breakfast."

The tramp had no sooner received the Bible than he hurled it to the ground, exclaiming: "You are altogether too pious for me. I don't want that kind of feed."

Then he turned to leave the yard, but Mrs. Cooper seized him by the collar. "You have damaged my Bible besides desecrating it," said the woman, "and you'll not not get off so easily."

The wanderer was then shown the wood pile and told to saw wood until told to stop. He was at first inclined to rebel, but the discovery of two of Mrs. Cooper's daughters, who came to her assistance, caused him to submit. After working for more than an hour the tramp was given his breakfast and allowed to depart.

A Middletowner Who "Bit" and Was Bitten in New York.

A well known North street merchant, who read in the ARGUS of the experience of three Middletowners, who saw the "fake" show at Newburgh, writes that he entered a place in New York recently, where a fellow announced that the tricks of gambling would be exposed. He paid ten cents to learn and saw a few old tricks explained, and paid ten cents more or a book containing the more difficult tricks exposed. Then the fellow asked him to tell those outside that the show within was a good one and should be patronized.

Six Very Expensive Out-of-Season Woodcock.

Charles Conklin, of near Paterson, shot six woodcock, Sunday. He sent them to Paterson by Oliver Coursen, who delivered them to Christopher Horandt, who ate them. Game Protecter Shriner heard of the game dinner and instituted proceedings. Horandt was fined $20 for each bird and paid the fine. Conklin could not raise $120 and went to jail and Coursen will have to pay $120 or go to jail as soon as he can be proceeded against.

What a Young Thief Got.

William Tremper, a young Newburgher arrested for breaking into an Erie freight car, when arraigned for sentence in Goshen, Monday, was asked by Judge McLean, "What did you get when you broke into the car?" His answer was, "I got caught." The Judge had to smile, but he sent the young thief to the Elmira Reformatory, just the same.

Small Price for a Large Farm.

From the Monticello Watchman.

The Buttrick stock farm of 406 acres, located in the town of Bethel, was sold, last week, by Attorney John P. Roosa, Jr., under foreclosure, for $5,985. John C. Pelton, the mortgagee, was the purchaser.

Set Fire to Montgomery's Lockup.

SUFFERING WOMEN.

How Many of Them Have Quietly Obtained Advice That Made Them Well.

My sister, if you find that in spite of following faithfully your family doctor's advice, you are not getting well, why do you not try another course? Many and many a woman has quietly written to Mrs. Pinkham, of Lynn, Mass., stating her symptoms plainly and clearly, and taken her advice, which was promptly received. The following letter is a pretty strong confirmation of our claims:

"I had been sick for six months; one doctor told me I would have to go to a hospital before I would get well. I had female troubles in their worst form, suffered untold agonies every month; my womb tipped back to my backbone, had headache, hysteria, fainting spells, itching, leucorrhœa.

"My feet and hands were cold all the time, my limbs were so weak that I could hardly walk around the house; was troubled with numb spells. I have taken four bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, one bottle of her Blood Purifier, one package of her Sanative Wash, and am entirely cured. I have not had one of those numb spells since. Can you wonder that I sing the praises of a medicine that has cured me of all these ills?"—MRS. LOUISA PLACE, 650 Belmont St., Brockton, Mass.
